

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A semiconductor stacking structure has a semiconductor device. A flexible substrate is coupled to a bottom surface of the semiconductor device. The flexible substrate is folded over on at least two sides to form flap portions. The flap portions are coupled to an upper surface of the first semiconductor device and covers only a portion of the upper surface of the semiconductor device.

2022022428001